

TIME FOR THE LOUD CRY

Can there be a loud cry that doesn't involve Islam? Can The Great Hope spark that cry? If not, why push it? More.

Share this Tweet this

ISRAEL: WHY DID WE GO?

VIEW VIDEOS

Part 1
Rats in the cells

Part 2
Totally ignored

Part 3
The Jesuits

Part 4
Zip Code: Silver Spring

Part 5
Stop the applause

Part 6
Contacting the media

Part 7
Islam & Judaism

Part 8
Apologizing to Rome

TOUGH QUESTIONS ... TOUGHER ANSWERS!

I'm a Seventh-day Adventist. From stem to stern: "a bona-fide, card carrying, Seventh-day Adventist" (Ian Boyne's words). It's not an easy thing to challenge the leadership of the church to which one happily belongs, but that's exactly what I feel compelled to do today.

Our newest on-line videos explore hot-potato issues that the leadership probably wishes I (and all dissidents within the church) would avoid, but how can we? The General Conference elections are upon us. How can any Seventh-day Adventist with eyes and ears – any Seventh-day Adventist who sees the ongoing sellout within the church – remain quiet today?

Like it or not, the Seventh-day Adventist Church has been given a set of messages to deliver to the world that by today's standards are woefully politically incorrect. Among other things these messages amplify the biblical reasons why Protestant Reformers like Wycliffe, Hus, Jerome, Luther, Knox, Calvin, Wesley, Spurgeon, Guinness and others identified the Roman Catholic Church as the antichrist power predicted in the Bible. This is the power that would "think to change times and laws" (Daniel 7:25) and in fulfillment of that prophecy, set about to deliberately, blasphemously, switch the Sabbath to Sunday. This is the power that would "wear out the saints of the Most high!" This is the power that, just before Jesus comes the 2nd time, will play a key role in the final wave of religious persecution predicted to engulf our planet.

Misunderstanding these messages (or perhaps understanding them all too well) on December 16th, 2012, Pastor Richard Ho Lung actually wrote an editorial in the Gleaner bearing the headline: "Do Seventh-day Adventists hate Catholics?" The answer of course is an emphatic "No!" We don't hate anybody, but we do have a duty under God to remind planet earth of some of the more unpleasant facts of history. Among them, this one: – from A.D. 538, when Roman Emperor Justinian's decree that the Catholic Church should be the State Church of the Roman Empire took effect, until Napoleon's forces took the Pope captive in 1798, the Roman Catholic Church slaughtered millions upon untold millions of dissidents (she called them "heretics") some for no greater crime than reading or possessing part of a Bible.

Stop and think about that for a moment. We use the word "Inquisition" today, but that doesn't capture half of the drama, half of the historic blood-lust, gleefully, passionately exhibited – pope in, pope out, for over 1,000 sickening years by the Roman Catholic Church! Part of the ignorance of this Holocaust is a result, I and others argue, of the deliberate dumbing-down of our planet. America might have her First Amendment – "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof" – but who remembers the magnitude of the systematic slaughter that precipitated it?

Our newest release, which you can freely watch at our website, explores these issues and highlights the extent to which the current leadership of the Seventh-day Adventist Church seems prepared to go in an effort at apologizing to Rome and re-writing history. Her latest piece of subterfuge? This book: The Great Hope. Beware of it. God willing I'll tell you more when next I come to Jamaica.

• DAVID MOULD

